

ArrowMark Partners Bolsters its Business Operations with New Chief Operations & Technology Officer

Kirk Reid joins to continue advancing the scalability of ArrowMark's investment platform and client-driven solutions

DENVER, COLORADO – ArrowMark Partners announced that Kirk Reid joined the firm effective June 1, 2019, in a newly-crafted role as Chief Operations & Technology Officer. In this role, Reid will be responsible for building and maintaining an efficient and scalable operational platform to ensure the firm is well-positioned for continued growth of its multi-faceted business and investment strategies the firm delivers to clients.

Reid joins from Oppenheimer Funds, where he spent the last three years serving as Senior Vice President, Head of Operations, and was responsible for centralizing and modernizing its global operations platform. Prior to joining Oppenheimer, Reid had a successful, 20 plus year career at Janus Capital Group where he held various leadership positions in business and investment operations and most recently was the Senior Vice President of Global Institutional Operations.

“With nearly 25 years of hands-on operating experience in asset management, including more than a decade working alongside many of us, Kirk is a well-respected and accomplished leader and brings a wealth of knowledge and insight to continue advancing the scalability of our business infrastructure and investment solutions we deliver to clients. We are thrilled to reunite and welcome Kirk to the ArrowMark team,” said David Corkins, Co-Founding ArrowMark Partner.
